Mrs. Hampel, Tri-Hi-Y sponsor, serves Larry Shultz and Walter Womack, two Hi-Y boys, at the Stardust Ball.

This is Butler High. Not just a school building, but youth that learn in their classrooms, in their extra-curricular activities, and in their experiences with other students in a busy world.

Learning to accept responsibilities, these students are preparing for the future, as new conquests are hurdled.

But most important to these students are the friends they make, for their friends are the molders of their character and leadership. They can either make them a success or a failure.

This is Butler High, the students, the future leaders of tomorrow. They're passing on the knowledge from centuries ago as they seek to uncover knowledge in the world of tomorrow.

Picnics Dances Sports

Providing very entertaining music for the Junior Play is the Junior Hi-Fi Band.

The fads are spreading to the boys, as Gary Culler and Ronnie Ault proudly display their bermuda shorts and socks, topped off by collegiate caps.

All Part of Butler High

ABOVE: The popcorn's good, but the script for the Senior Play still isn't learned as Sylvia Van Leuvan does some fast memorizing. LEFT: "Up and up!" GAA members seem to be having a hard time grabbing that ball.

The only bad part of school. Joan Lowe, Max Trubey, Sylvia Van Leuven, and Barbara Trobaugh are comparing grade cards.

It's the activity of students that make a school, not the building. Working together and playing together, students are occupied throughout the day.

To start the school year, students are kept busy with homework and extra-curricular activities. And as the year progresses, activities with never-to-be forgotten memories are cherished. The Halloween Festival, the Prom Dance, Banquets, and Initiations are all part of the students program for working and playing together.

The school is your home; and your job for six hours of the day. Together with your teachers and your fellow students, history is made and history is remembered as students learn the fun of co-operating together in making better students, a better school and a better community.

By Working and Playing Together

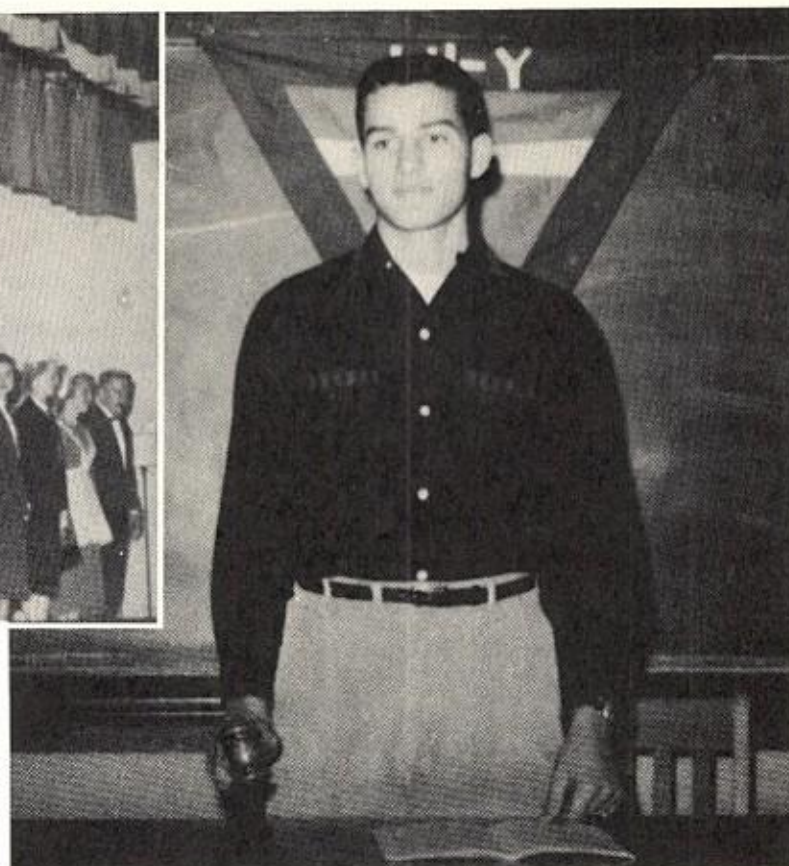

Woody Blaker pauses for the camera while he measures yardage for the broad jump in track.

And its hurry, hurry, hurry, as students get from class to class between period.

Students Learn to Cooperate in Harmony

"Now, what could be the matter with these lights?" David McClish wonders as he makes a final check before the curtain goes up on the Senior Play.

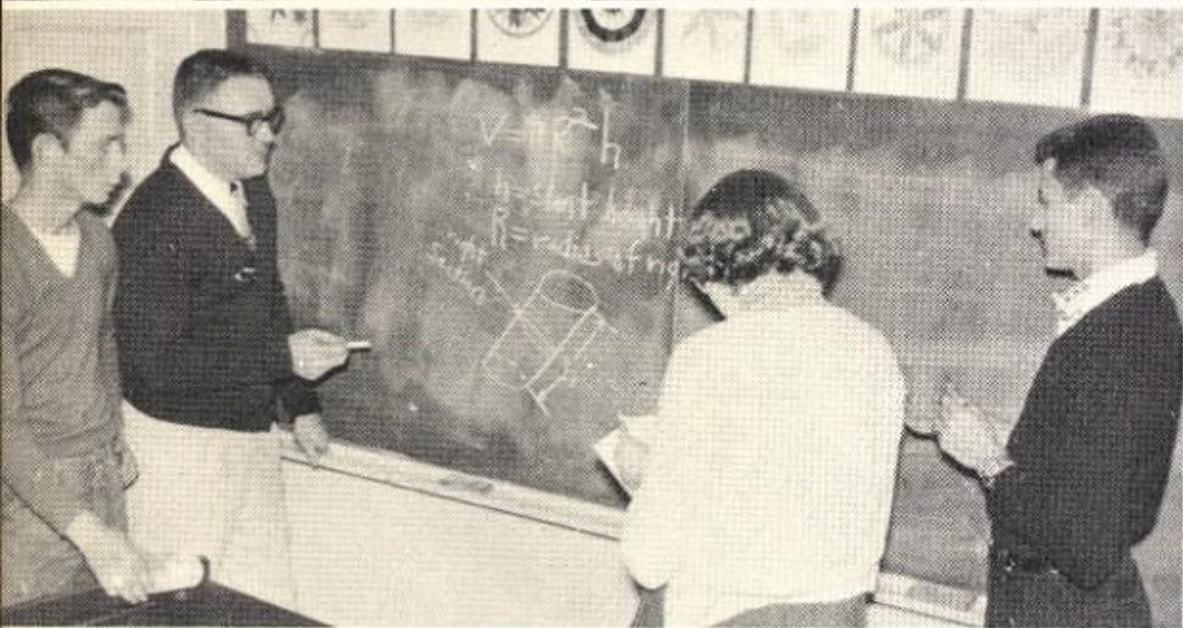

One of the many convocations brought before the school this year was a descriptive account of China presented by a native of that land.

Giving a panel on science, and the role it plays in our every day life, are seventh graders Sue Wasson, Larry McCann, Reva Sattison, Sheldon Shaffer, Carol Smith, and Steven Johnson.

Our Math and Science classes this year are under the direction of Mr. Van Zuilen, a graduate of Purdue University, Mrs. Schubert, a graduate of Manchester, and Mrs. Buenerkemper, a graduate of the University of Alabama.

This year our science classes have the facilities of a brand new and well equipped lab. In these lab classes we perform many useful experiments. Our science classes this year consist of chemistry and biology. Our math classes, especially geometry and trigonometry, are made easier by a set of wooden three dimensional figures which they have for their study.

Mr. Van Zuilen shows solid geometry students, Keith Keltner, Marjorie Brade, and George King the formula for finding the volume of a cylinder.

They Strive to Conquer the Unknown

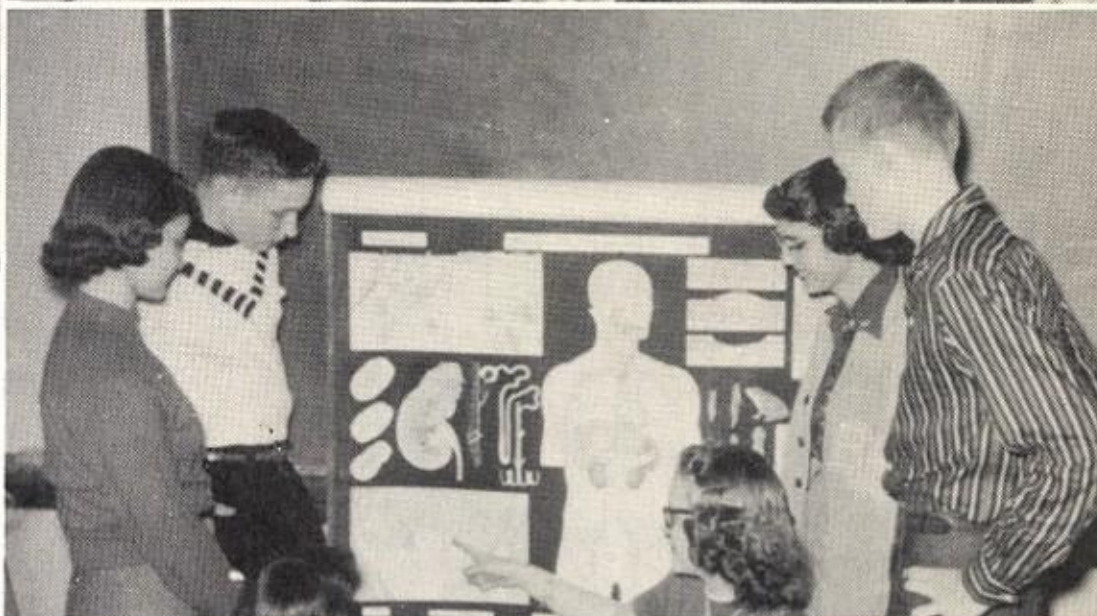

Three interested biology students, Sharon Van Leuven, Patty Klink, and Judy Whitman take dissecting lessons from their teacher Mrs. Buenerkemper.

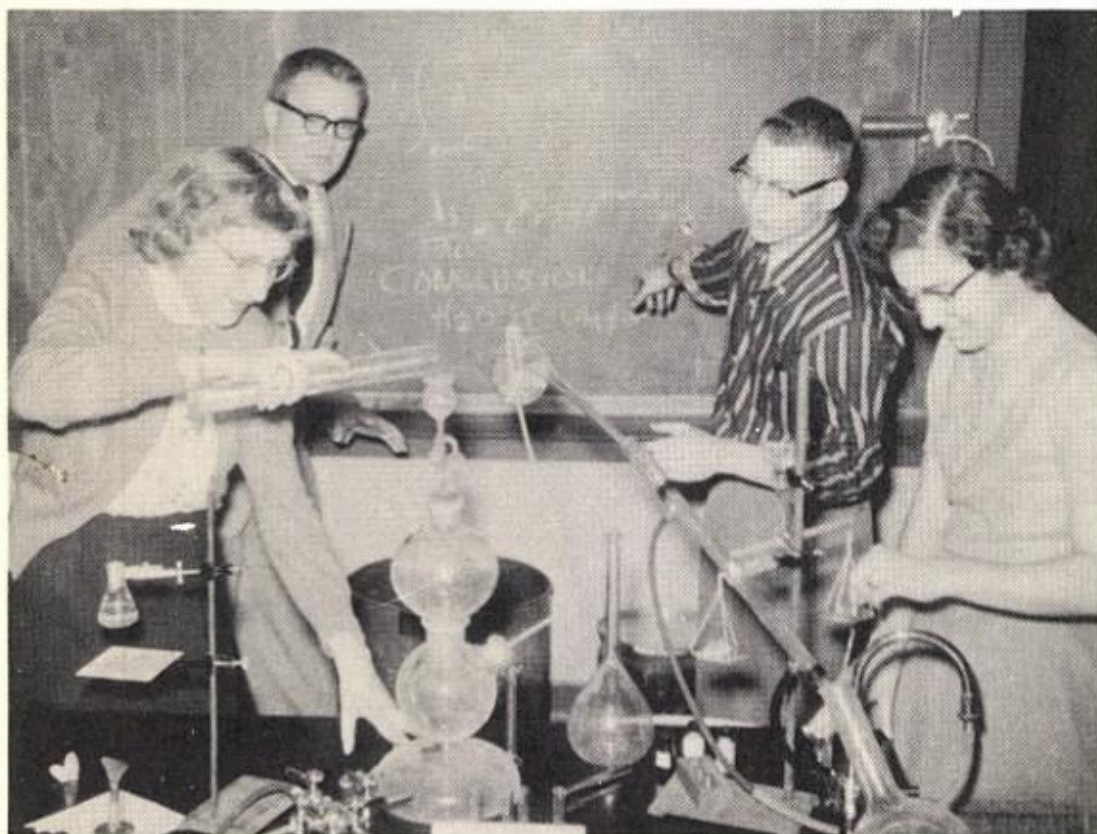

"Is it right?" Pat Getts asks, as Algebra students work out problems.

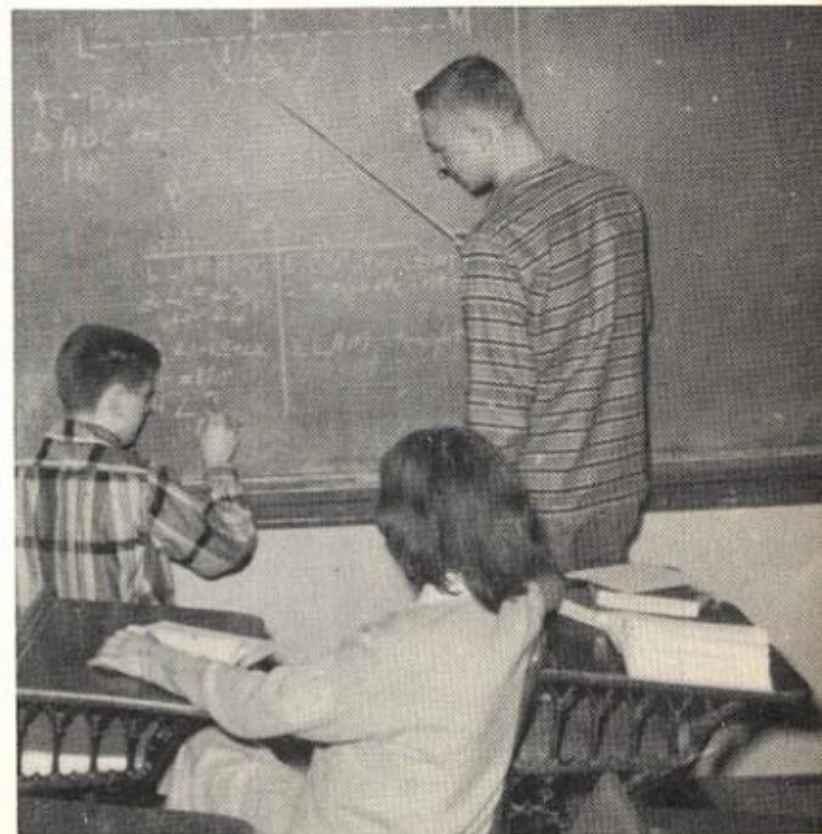

ABOVE: Mrs. Shubert helps Larry Clear and Nancy Ruch solve some extra hard arithmetic problems. RIGHT: Learning about the human body and its functions are health and safety students: Karen Vachon, Wilbur Camp, Doug Higley, Marlene Kraft, Ruth Casebere, and Marilyn Jennings.

Through Knowledge Gained in Math and Science.

Chemistry students, Marjorie Brade, Burgess Walter, Ened Hankey, under the direction of Mr. Van Zuilen, their teacher, are in the process of proving that hydrogen combined with oxygen produces water.

How do we prove that $\triangle ABC$ equals 180° ? This is a hard question for Roger Walters, Keith Smith, Glenda Wasson, and Lura Lautzenhiser, a few of Mr. Van Zuilen's plane geometry students.

Advising Dick Bacon on the drawing of his project are David McClish, Robert Zimmerman, Robert Klink, and Stanley Casebere.

Classrooms Buzz with Activity as Students

Giving pointers on the finishing of wood to Sonya Brade and Jeff McCann is Mr. Smith, instructor.

Our shop and mechanical drawing class this year is taught by Mr. Albert Smith, a graduate of Ball State Teachers College. Our shop classes make an impressive sight with all the new tools that we have; while the mechanical drawing room has new drawing tables which were purchased toward the end of last year. There is also offered, for the first time in Butler School, a course in auto mechanics. This course brought quite a turnout of students, who learn about the basic points of an engine and how to repair and improve them.

Gary Culler is drawing the details of the Christmas scene of the shepherds as they prepare to go into Bethlehem.

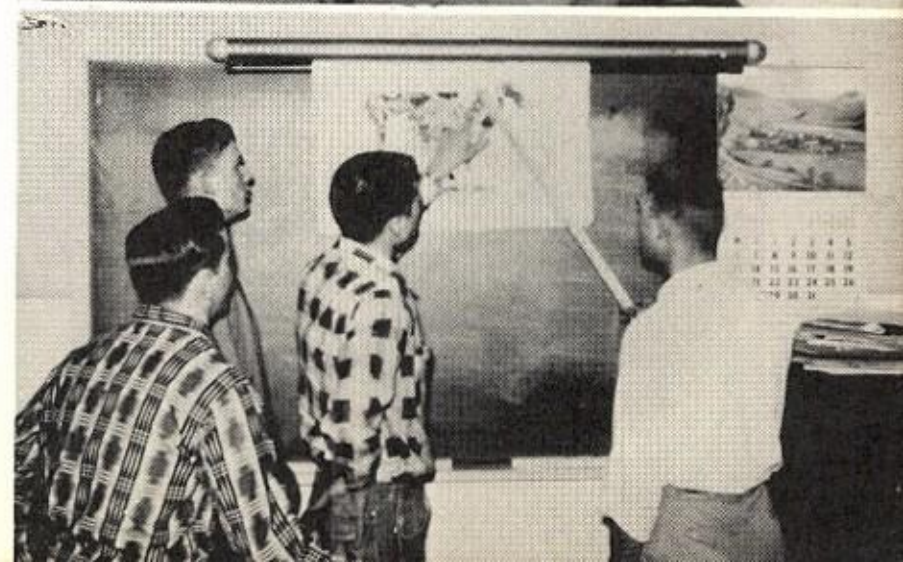

Learn the Tricks of the Trades

The newly organized Art Department of Butler High has proved very educational to everyone with the bulletin board drawings such as the religious Christmas Scene and has given our artists a chance to show their talents.

The Homemaking Department has been equipped with modern appliances and other accessories. The girls not only learn how to cook and sew but also learn the essentials of good home living and planning.

Here, in agriculture, we find the boys carrying out supervised farm practice projects so that they can better themselves by doing and by learning. This encourages and promotes better management in future years of farming.

Nora Shaffer and Inez Beard are putting the finishing touches on the skirt of Mary Baker for their project in Home Economics. Learning the parts of a perfect cow for judging contests are Agricultural students Max Trubey, Dale Rigg, Merle Young, and Richard Getts.

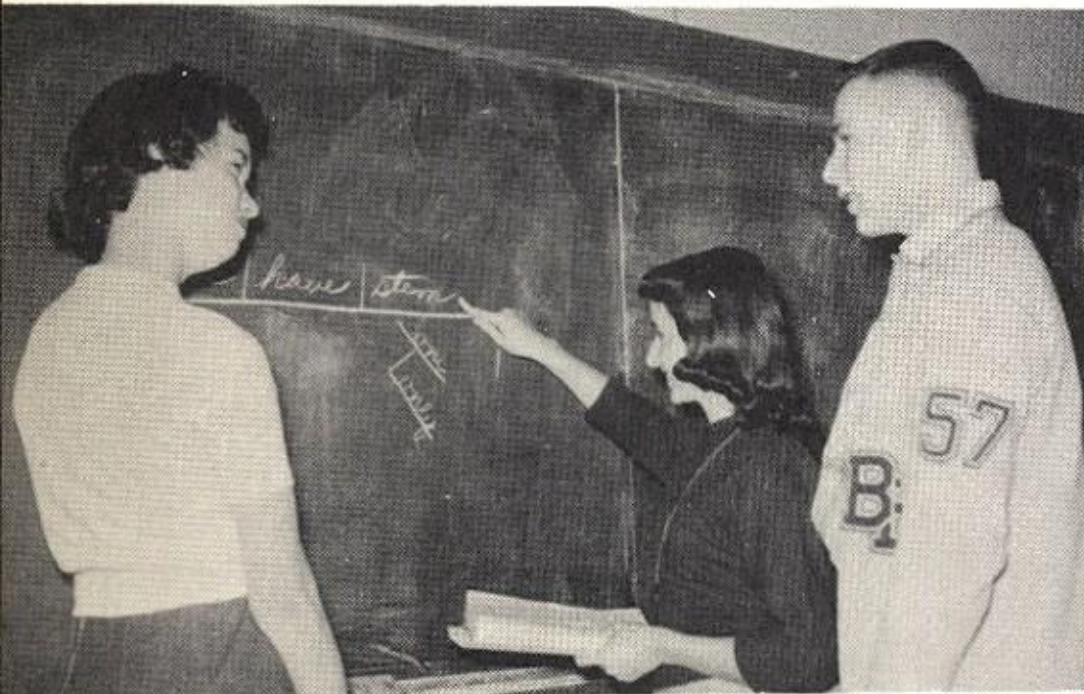

There it is! U.S. History Students, Nancy Buttermore, Larry LaRowe, Gary Culler and Joan Lowe look pleased as they find the town of Butler on the globe.

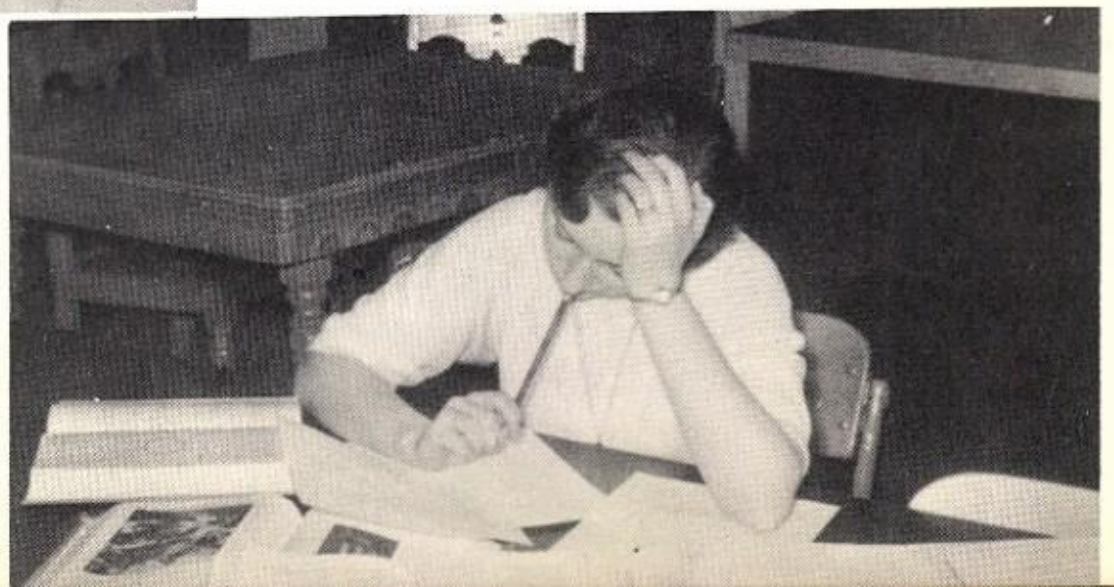

The English Department of the Butler High School gives students an informative and practical usage of English. Grammar, composition, literature, speech, and spelling are included in the program designed to help students in an effective use of this language. English courses are supplemented by a background of planned reading through the educational services of the Reader's Digest.

Teaching democratic ideals, free enterprise, and the importance of individuals is the main background of history. Relating the past with the present plus stressing the necessity of knowing how democracy works creates a well informed and responsible citizen.

Honors are Achieved by the Best

The students are the leaders of the Senior class. Their actions and their deeds are copied by other students and underclassmen throughout the school. Because of them the morale and leadership is raised to an even higher standard.

The requirements for these awards are based on the student and his accomplishments during his four years of high school training. His cooperation, leadership, attitude, courtesy, and reliability are all taken into consideration. The final vote of the faculty chooses the winners of these citizenship awards.

Each seniors' grades for his four years in high school are compiled and averaged. The two students with the highest averages are given the honor of being valedictorian and salutatorian of their class. The top ranking senior is George King, who has an average of 96.93, closely followed by Karen Walker with an average of 96.39.

Living in a complex world, these students will make their life, and the lives of those around them more pleasant by their training and ideals taught them during their years at Butler High School.

The Hope of Achieving

With their goal as their Senior trip, underclassmen and Seniors work industriously to make money throughout each school year.

Class members must work as a team in order to get the most work done, in the least amount of time. To do this, committees are formed and every student must do his share of work to make these projects a success.

The Freshmen start working for their goal by sponsoring an ice-cream social. When they are Sophomores, classmen check coats during the home ball-games. Selling concessions and magazines gives the Juniors a big boost in their treasury. Earning the last part of the money for their trip, the Seniors sell license plates and sponsor paper drives.

Working as a team with one goal in mind, students cry, "Washington or bust".

John Durst seems pleased with himself as he gets Mrs. William Sadler to buy a magazine subscription.

They Thrill to Two Nights

The Prince Charming and Cinderella of the annual Halloween Festival are Seniors, Walter Smith and Barbara Trobaugh.

"Step right this way, folks. Try your luck and take a chance."

These calls echoes throughout the high school as class and club members opened their booths to the public.

The Halloween Festival is an annual carnival held for the raising of money and for the fun it provides for young and old. Held on the night of Halloween, the Festival lends an "erie enchantment" to the familiar surroundings.

School is dismissed in the afternoon, and students prepare for the big evening with crepe paper, boards, and nails plus the imagination it takes to attract a crowd.

The night is finally here, and people from ages six to sixty pour through the doors. Those who are six can enjoy the unexpected surprise of the fish pond and the movies that provide thrills and adventure. Those sixty can relax to the pleasant music of the Hi-Fi Band and enjoy the good food at the refreshment stands.

And then 10:30. The crowd suddenly quiets as Cinderella, Prince Charming and their court make their way through the crowded gym to a reign of splendor and enchantment.

Royalty has been crowned, wonder and excitement has been experienced by all, and a night has ended until another year.

Betty Jones and Bob Robinette pause for refreshments at the Stardust Ball.

Dancing on a cloud, couples waltzed into the early morn as the Stardust Ball came to a close.

The dance, which is an annual affair, was sponsored by the Tri-Hi-Y clubs last year. For the past two years the dance has been opened to only club members, but this year it is to be sponsored by the Student Council, and opened to the entire high school.

Under a canopy of lilac and white musicians played never to be forgotten strains of music set to the rhythm of the dancing of club members.

The dances were chaperoned by both club sponsors, Mrs. Esther Hampel, Tri-Hi-Y sponsor, and Mr. Wade Hall, Hi-Y sponsor, and also by various teachers and parents who enjoyed the evening as much as the students did.

Arriving home in a mist of stars, couples found this to be a night filled with wonderful memories that will be treasured forever.

Of Wonder, Excitement, and Memories

Greenies at Rehearsals

"Did you take that letter?" Father, Mr. Shermer, Freddie, Hildegarde.

After weeks of tryouts and rehearsals, the opening night of "We Shook the Family Tree" proved to be one filled with anticipation, new experiences, and pleasure for both the play cast and the audience.

The play starred Sandra Lee Doolittle as Hildegard Dolson, a high school senior who lived on trouble.

Through a misunderstanding at a school debate, Hildegard's father is inaccurately believed to be a drunkard. Having no date for the Senior Prom, her Mother arranges it so she can go with Freddie Shermer, the only boy in the entire high school who wears knickers.

With a chance of her father being fired, and having to suffer the humiliation of going to the Prom with a boy in short pants, Hildegard's troubles still mount as her parents' love letters are distributed throughout the neighborhood.

Complications arise when Hildegard is accused of burglary.

With seemingly no way out, everything ends perfectly as Hildegard's fondest dream of having a Prom date, is fulfilled.

Under the superior direction of Mr. Jack Alexander and Burgess Walter, student director, the cast presented a play filled with memories that will live in the hearts of both young and old for future years to come.

By His Faith in Prayer

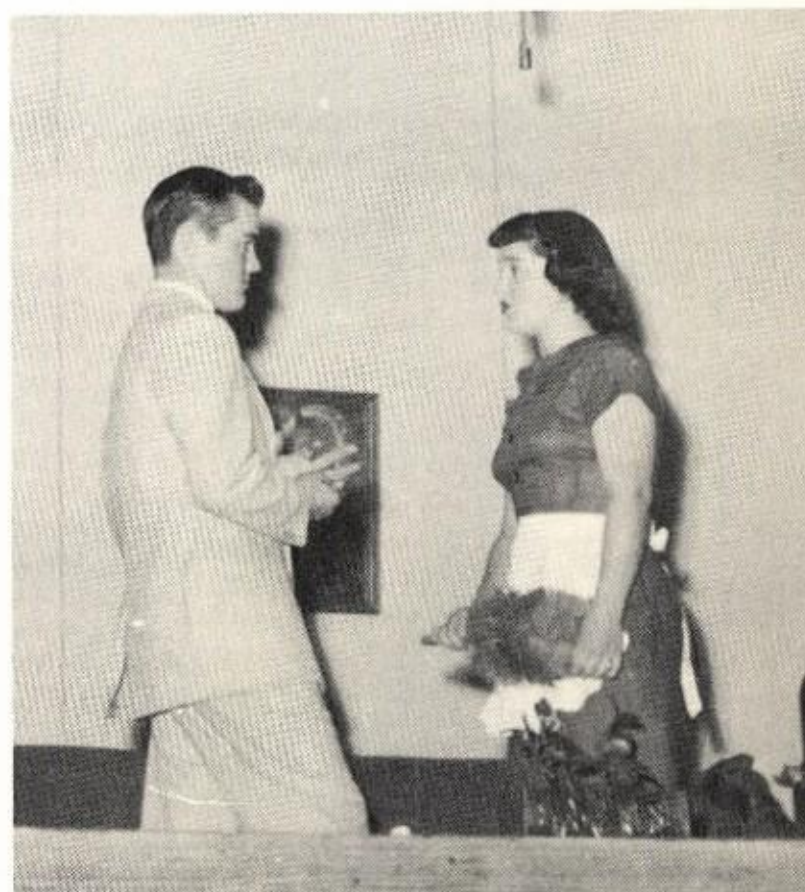

Giving the audience an idea of the power of faith and prayer, the Senior play cast presented "A Man Called Peter", the life story of Rev. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the United States Senate.

Walter Smith portrayed the Reverend with Sharon Robinett as his understanding wife. Under the excellent casting and direction of Mr. Leonard Johnston and Eleanor Clear, student director, the seniors relived the life of a minister and his family as they coped with the problems and short-comings of parishoners in the New York Avenue Church, in Washington, D. C.

Complications arise when the Bickle sisters, two spinsters who are against modern trends, find that Dr. Marshall is catering more to the young people of the church than themselves. Joe Keating, a young delinquent, steals from Senator Polk's garage and runs away to New York City to escape charges. Mr. and Mrs. Grant, who are husband and wife in name only find that their marriage is on the rocks and that their daughter, Susan, is afraid to marry because of the example set before her.

Mrs. Marshall becomes ill with tuberculosis and Dr. Marshall has a heart attack.

When all seems at it's darkest, the brightest comes forth to triumph in the end.

Dr. Marshall says it was God's will that brought me here, and I believe that. I know that the peace of God has been with me ever since I decided to stay. Susan Grant.

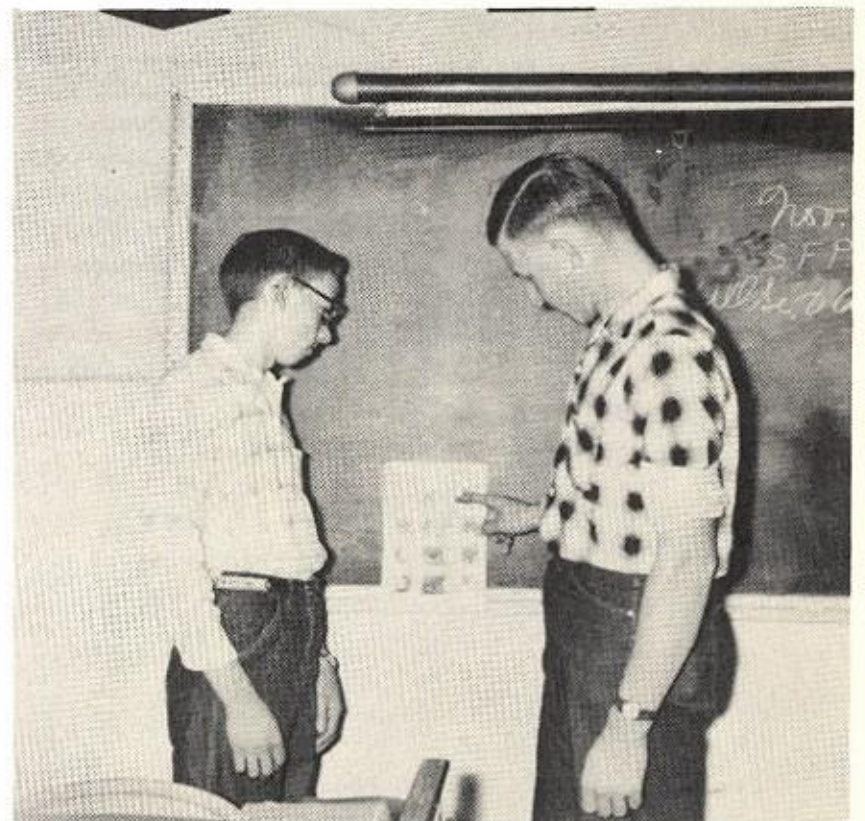

Organizations

The three enthused singers of the Hi-Fi Band. Jo Ann Rex, Sandra Doolittle, and Barbara Trobaugh.

FFA livestock judging teaches better agricultural methods. Lyle Holman and Jerry Crowl.

Putting together the new handbook are Joan Lowe, Secretary; Gloria Miser, Treasurer; Eleanor Clear, Vice-president; and Bill Ringenberg, President.

The Student Council has been active in Butler for several years.

Each of the upper six grades elect one boy and one girl to represent them in the council.

While this organization does not seek to direct the administrative activities of the school, it does have specific duties.

Among these duties are:

- (1) The selection and control of the school monitors.
- (2) The selection of the three chief school convocations.
- (3) The supervision of the student activities.
- (4) The establishment of suggested rules of behavior.
- (5) Helping to carry out all school policies.

The student council seeks to promote the best interests of the students and teachers, to raise the standards of the student behavior, and to promote closer cooperation between teachers and students.

Before any new club can be organized in the high school it must be approved through the Council.

This representative body hears, discusses, and then votes upon many school issues, thus playing an important part in molding school policy.

The Leaders of Tomorrow

FIRST ROW: Joan Lowe, Carol Smith, Steve Johnson, Lynn Alexander, Gloria Miser, Marlene Kessler.
SECOND ROW: Steve Harts, Roger Walter, Jerry

Surface, Bill Ringenberg, Eleanor Clear, Marvin Synder, Mr. Boling, Sponser.

Striving to make out school a better place in which to learn, National Honor Society members are setting examples for other students to follow.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Madeline Schubert, members learn to become good leaders and to also be good followers in the world of tomorrow.

Membership is open to juniors and seniors who have a "B" average or better, and who excell in the four fields of scholarship, service, character, and leadership. Sophomores meeting these requirements are probationary members.

Sponsoring a project that will improve the school, the club members finance their service by the sale of pen sets, as they did this year, or by the noon concessions.

Cleaning the trophy case which the National Honor Society does once a month are the officers: Freida Moore, Treasurer; June Miller, Vice-president; Bill Ringenberg, President; Jo Ann Rex, Secretary.

Committed by Their Faith as Christians

Packing clothes for the needy are Jo Ann Rex, Treasurer; Marjorie Brade, Chaplin; Freida Moore, Secretary; Florence Lautzenhiser, Vice President; Sharon Robinett, President.

The Tri-Hi-Y is a Christian fellowship. One of Christ's primary teachings is that all people have basic worth. Any practice which does not pay full tribute to the signity of every human being falls short of the Christian ideal. This Christian teaching is the basis for the governing principle of Tri-Hi-Y membership—namely, Tri-Hi-Y is open to any girl regardless of race, color, creed, or economic status.

The girls have been kept busy with their activities this year. They sponsored a clothing drive for those less fortunate than they. For their Christmas party they had a joint party with the Hi-Y boys. They called it a caya (pronounced Ki ya). As it turned out, the caya meant, "come as you are". Most of the boys and girls were unaware of that fact until they were invited.

They Build for the Future

Discussing the plans for the Hi-Y program are the officers, Richard Getts, Sgt. at Arms; Max Hoffer, Secretary; Bill Ringenberg, Chaplin; Brian Krontz, Treasurer; Gary Culler, Vice President; George King, President.

The Butler Hi-Y Club, consisting of the upper three grades, is known as one of the outstanding clubs in our school.

In the beginning of the school year, the sophomores and other upper classmen who wish, are given their chance to join. Their school records are checked and then they are given a candidate blank. After their blanks are filled out and turned in, they are voted on by the club. The members have to be accepted by a majority vote.

Later in the fall, after the boys have been voted in, the club has its' induction ceremony. This year the ceremony took place in the Methodist Church.

During the school year the Hi-Y Club meets once a month at which time they have their business meeting and then a program which usually consists of some outside speaker.

Also during the school year, the Hi-Y sponsors a variety of movies which are shown to the school body.

The FHA officers enjoying a tea party: Florence Lautzenhiser, Secretary; Elaine Sholl, President; Diana Weicht, Vice-president. Lura Lee Van Wye, Treasurer, absent.

The Future Homemakers of America is a national organization. Its purposes are to encourage democracy in home and community life, to develop creative leadership and to promote a growing appreciation of the satisfactions of homemaking. Membership is open to any girl in high school.

The emblem of the club is a house supported by two hands symbolizing that the homes of America are in the hands of it's youth. Their motto is "Toward New Horizons."

Their goals are to train and improve themselves to be more democratic in all phases of life and to give emphasis to leadership ability by using democratic principles at home, at school, and in the community.

Their formal induction services are observed by FHA clubs all over the United States. During a very impressive candlelight ceremony, the purposes of the club, and goals, are read to the new and old members alike.

Each year, eight members of the club go to the semi-annual meetings. An equal number of members from each club of this district also attend. During this meeting, several different ideas on the planning and carrying on the various programs are discussed and voted on. It is also decided where the next meeting will be held.

The FFA chapter of Butler High School has completed a very successful year with a total of 56 members. This is the largest membership enrollment in the school's history.

The boys, under the guidance of their advisor, Mr. Sadler, have made many accomplishments during the year. They placed high in county, district, and state contests in crops, poultry, forestry, and vegetable judging.

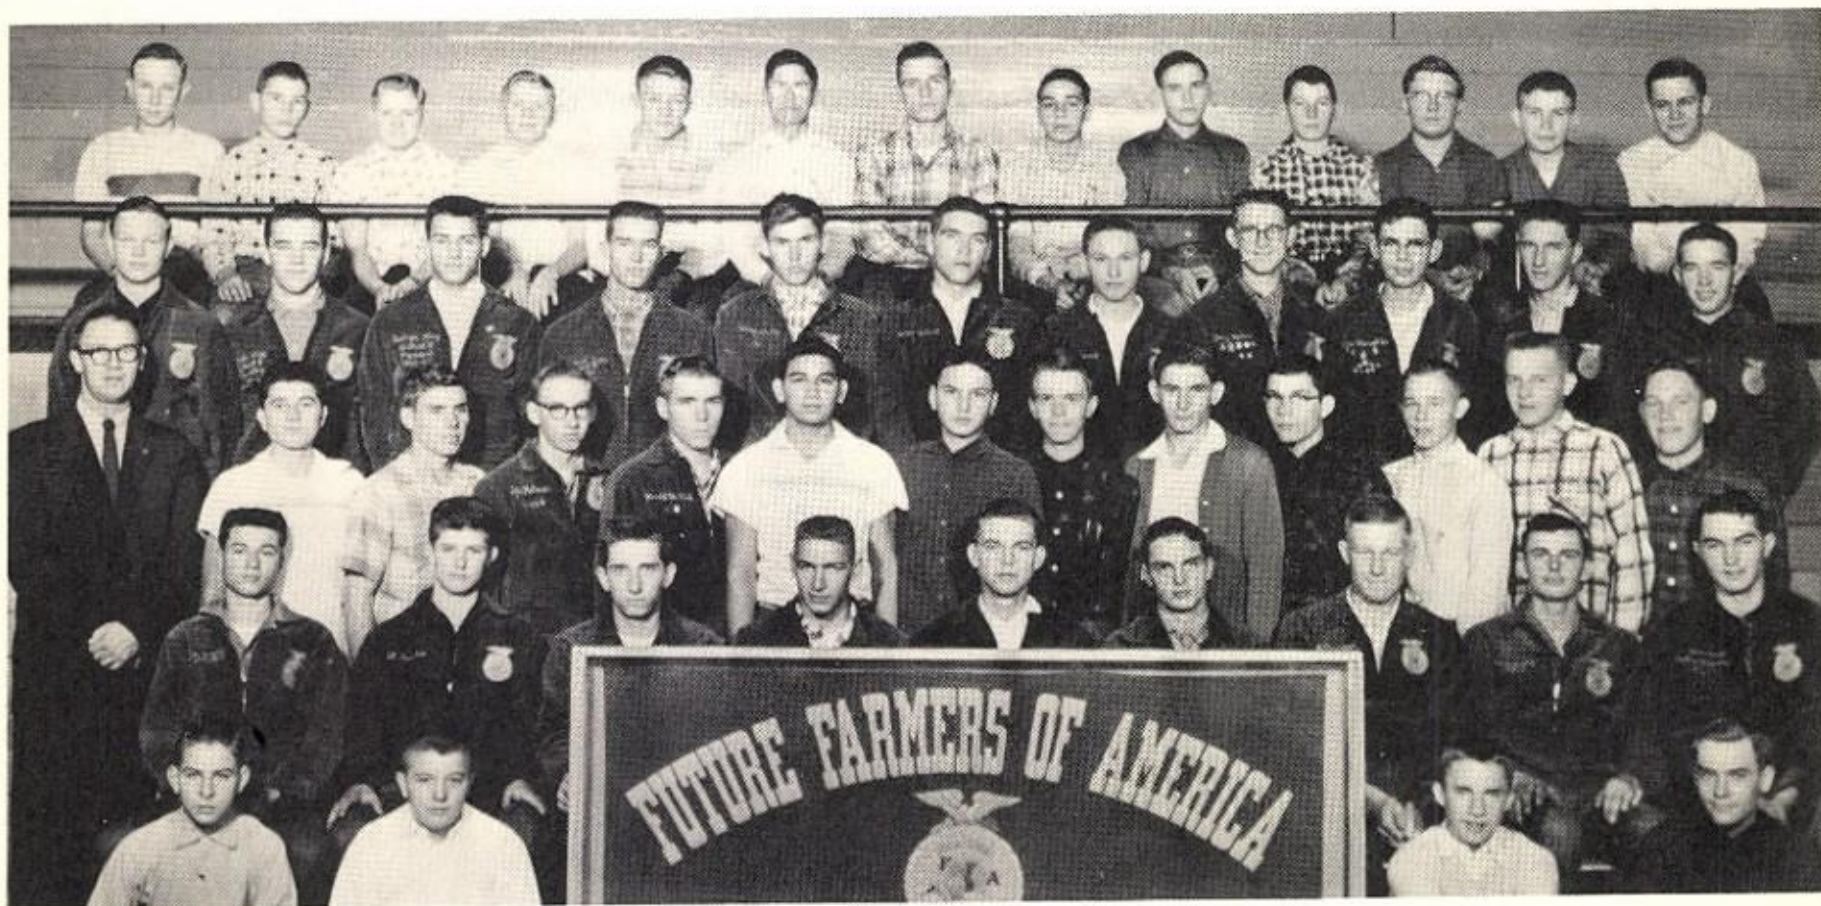

The boys have also added to their laurels by winning the following positions in District III competition: president, secretary, and reporter. In Section I competition they also were elected to the offices of president and reporter.

The chapter was proud to claim two Hoosier Farmer Degrees in addition to completing all their other activities during the year, such as the Father-Son banquet, the scrap drive, seed sales, caring for their school farm, planting multiflora rose bushes around the new school and planting pine trees. All agree it has been a full year for the boys in blue.

The FFA officers sit behind the emblems of their offices: Mr. Sadler, advisor; Dale Rigg, Vice-president; John Durst, Secretary; George King, President; Jerry Crowl, Sentinel; Larry Moore, Treasurer; Dwight Scholl, Reporter.

Working tirelessly to produce an All-American yearbook, were the Tropaeum staff and Mr. William Sadler, advisor.

Karen Walker, editor-in-chief, supervised twenty staff members in production problems that arise on picture layouts, photography, copy writing, and many other small but important problems. Working closely with her was Joan Lowe, assistant editor.

Spending many nights after school, the yearbook finally took shape through the tireless efforts of staff members. With the deadlines met the Tropaeum is put to press.

The Tropaeum has a circulation of over four hundred books that represents months of problems in advertising, financing, and publication.

The Tropaeum, which means victory, gives readers permanent memories of friends for future years.

Deadlines and Layouts

The "Windmill Breeze", a monthly publication of the Butler students, gives the staff members an idea how "big town" papers are printed.

The staff is composed of over twenty high school students who report on athletics, club meetings, convocations, and important happenings in the school.

Under the guidance of Miss Macklin, advisor of the newspaper publications, the staff members receive valuable information on producing a good paper.

Through the co-operation of the entire staff, the Windmill Breeze is put to press with news of interest to every high school student.

The Breeze has a circulation of over two hundred copies. Plus the many subscriptions in the school and the community, the Breeze is also sent to more than thirty schools in the Tri-State area.

Using the "freedom of the press", these reporters are carrying out a century old responsibility of reporting the news to the people as it happens.

"Breeze come out Friday!" Working behind the scenes pasting up the dummy and proofreading the galleys to make true this prophecy are Susan Masters, business manager; Nancy Buttermore, assistant editor; Sandra Lee Doolittle, editor; and Sharon Robinett, feature writer.

They Learn to Speak and Act

Discussing the plans for the Language Club are the officers; Julie Smith, Sec.-Treas., seated; Glenda Wasson, Pres.; Don Cook, Vice-Pres.

Have you ever wondered how and from where we got the custom of kissing under the mistletoe? This and many more questions are answered during the monthly meetings of the Language Club. The twenty members that comprise this club are taking or have taken either Latin or Spanish, and this year the feature plan for meetings is "Comparison of Latin, Spanish, and American Customs."

In this way, the members can learn some views on how other people live. They have compared the Roman Saturnalia to our Christmas, Spanish fiestas to our party, and many other things. All of these things will help them in their future to understand the people of this earth and build a better America.

On Stage and in Other Countries

The Drama Club, a newly organized club in Butler High, prepares students for school plays, speeches, and oral talks.

Under the guidance of Miss Sara Jane Felter, the club members learn how to apply make-up, how to get better lighting on stage, and how to add color to their talks.

In order to raise money for the club funds, they sponsored a record hop on December 21. Four club members, Ronald Ault, Larry LaRowe, Steve Harts, and Roger Imhoff dressed in colorful costumes and acted as emcees.

Club meetings taught members a lot about costumes and acting, as they put on colorful plays, record pantomimes, and readings.

With over twenty members, the Butler Drama Club has proved to be a valuable asset in teaching these young adults the struggles and glories of an actor.

Being made up are Drama Club officers. Gary Culler, secretary-treasurer, Rosalie Farmer, President, and Sylvia Van Leuven, Vice President.

Hear Our Victory Cry! Fight Fight!

Representing the Booster Block are Max Hoffer, president; Sharon Robinett, secretary-treasurer; Walter Smith, vice-president; Karen Vachon, business manager, absent.

"Go, ye Windmills!" This chant can be heard at all the basketball games. The chorus of voices shouting is known as the Butler Booster Block. It is one of the newest clubs in Butler High School, and everyone can tell when this group gets together.

Any student in grades 7 to 12 can belong to the Booster Block. The rules are simple: you must wear a white shirt or blouse to all games, but a season ticket, and yell for all you're worth.

There are no dues in the Booster Block. Money is raised by selling popcorn at the home games.

The "Mighty Mills" know there is a special club in School just to back them. You would be surprised to learn how much it means to them.

When at a basketball game, you see a flash of white and hear a mighty roar, you will know it is not a tornado, it is the Butler Booster Block.

This year the Butler Booster Block, with the help of Mr. John Parvu, sponser, has accomplished many things. One thing that turned out very successful is the "card section".

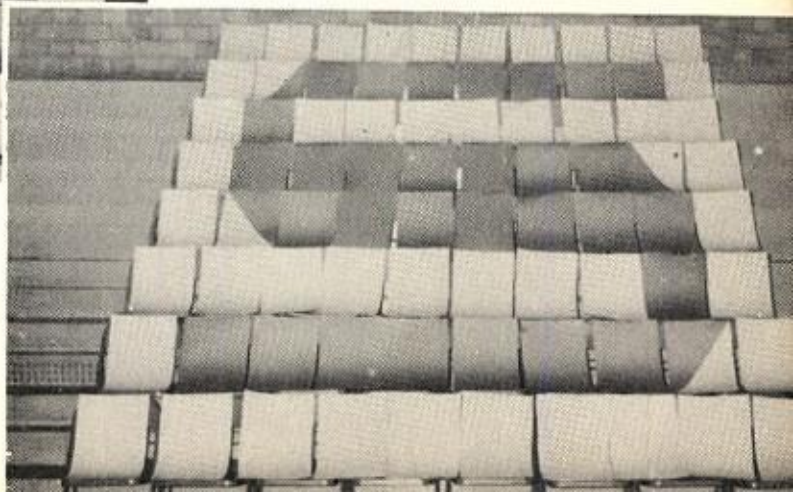

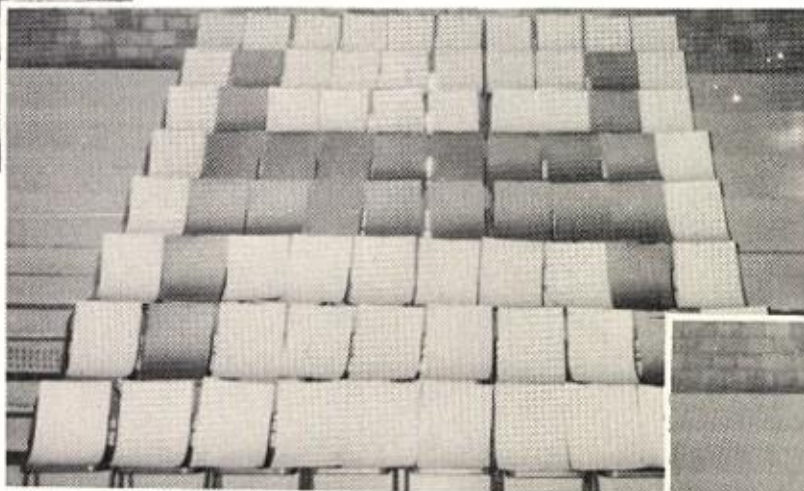

It is made up of 100 students, who change cards around to form different letters.

A large "thank-you" is extended to all who participated and helped to build the Butler Booster Block.

They Cheer the Team to Victory

The card section of the Booster Block forms the letters B, H, and S.

Singing their way to a "superior" at the State Music Contest, the girls barbershop quartet composed of Elaine Sholl, Jo Ann Rex, June Miller, and Sandra Lee Doolittle get in a few minutes of practice.

Twenty voices, blending as one, make up the Butler High School Chorus, a group that is "mid-get" in size but whose energy and musical talent are "gigantic".

Miss Rebecca Meeks, the newly acquired director, offers to these students musical variety as they sing semi-classical tunes, Sigmund Romberg melodies, and Broadway Show tunes.

The chorus, as well as the band competes in an annual contest for ensembles and soloists. If a first is won at the district, they are eligible for the state-wide contest.

Singing at outside engagements and rounding off their year by singing at the senior baccalaureate, these members experience the thrill of competition and success as good music lives on.

Harmonize in Renditions of Old Favorites

Providing music of the old favorites of yesterday and the hit tunes of today is the Hi-Fi Band, a group of twenty-one artists playing and singing the "tops" in dance band favorites.

These high school students play for outside engagements wherever good music is wanted. Proms, dinners, and meetings; the people who attend these put their minds at ease as the familiar strains of music provide listening pleasure.

Mr. Keith Gnagy, director of the band which was originated by the Class of 1957, also arranges the music which the band plays.

Thus, by learning from experiencing, the band not only gives enjoyment to many but also provides a sound background for many who plan to enter the field of music.

Practice makes perfect as the Hi-Fi Band with Woodley Blaker, trumpet soloist, puts the finishing touches on "Once In A While".

Forty-five member marched their way

With a Flash of White

Leading the Band to honors was Sandra Lee Doolittle, drum majorette.

With a flash of white and a streak of gold the Butler Band's Marching Forty-Five finished another year filled with honors and championships from their top marching performances.

The members, under the direction of Mr. Keith Gnagy, began their marching year in September at the LaGrange and DeKalb County Fairs. The valuable experience gained at the LaGrange Fair led to a fourth placing at the DeKalb County Fair.

The band proved ready and able for the State Marching Contest which was held at Fort Wayne on October 13. The contest which is an annual affair, is the highlight of a marching year.

Taking a few moments out for silent prayer, forty-five members began their marching spectacular filled with moments to remember as they performed skills in marching, playing, and showmanship.

Honoring the servicemen of bygone years, the band formed a church and a cross in gold lights. Saluting all dead heroes, the show was ended in a round of applause as the band proudly marched off the field.

The night was to be filled with even more surprises as the audience waited for the contest finals to be announced.

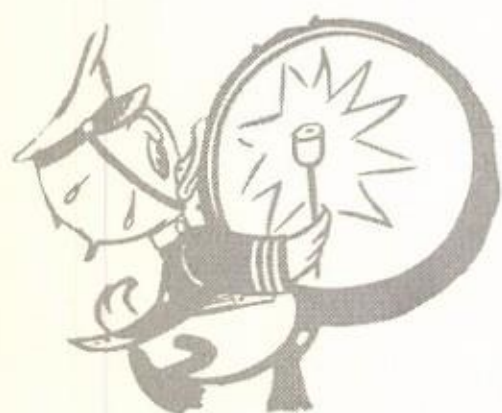

The band had received first placing! It was too good to be true. And as still more honors were announced, the Butler band members proudly wept as they heard that the championship inspected band had been awarded to them. This honor is based on neatness of uniforms, the straightness of lines, and many other important marching requirements.

Happy were the forty-five bandsmen as they arrived home proudly displaying two trophies.

to honors and championships for another year.

And a Streak of Gold

Sorting music for the band folios are the officers. Eleanor Clear, treasurer; June Miller, secretary; Woody Blaker, president; John Meeks, vice-president.

"One, two, ready, go" is the familiar chant as Mr. Keith Gnagy directs the band in their neverending world of music.

At concerts, convos, and contests the music that the Butler band produces echoes throughout the home, school, and community to enrich the lives of music lovers everywhere.

These members change from a life of marching in the fall, to one of fine concert music in the spring. Rounding off their year filled with melody, these students under the direction of Mr. Keith Gnagy prepare for the annual contest in concert music. If a first is won at the district, they are then eligible to compete in the state-wide contest. Also, a contest for soloists and ensembles is open to the band members.

Besides this contest, the Butler Band also puts on a spring concert for the city of Butler and the surrounding communities. Exchange concerts are a new adventure, but the idea seems to be spreading as the band this year exchanged concerts with the Sturgis, Michigan band. To round out their concert at Sturgis, they took a trip through the Conn factory which makes band instrument at Elkhart, Indiana.

They are a proud group, these fifty-three, for the record of accomplishments they leave in their part provides an even greater challenge for the bandmen of the future.

The Butler Windmills, playing one of the roughest schedules ever, closed the season with a record of eight victories against eleven losses. This year Butler's coach was Mr. John Reed, formerly of Etna Green; whose 1942 Wolf Lake team defeated Butler in the Regional Tourney. Mr. Reed developed the team's character and sportsmanship qualities as well as their athletic abilities.

This year's team, the shortest squad in several years, was handicapped by their lack of height as they played new teams on the schedule including Kendallville, Elmhurst, La Grange, and Decatur. The team was fortunate to have a well-balanced team, both in age and playing ability.

The usual starters were Rich Lint and Clayton Derrow as forwards, Bill Ringenberg as center, and George King and DeVair Weicht as guards. Seeing much action and sharing in scoring were Roger Walter, Walt Womack, John Durst, Phil Ginder, and Chuck Vose. These boys, along with DeVair will be back to play on next year's varsity. Also, playing part of the season were Woody Blaker, Jeff Brown, and Dick Bacon.

The boys overcame their handicap of height by their speed, scrap, and drive. This was proved in the Ashley game, which was played in the Waterloo gym. Butler won in an overtime, 72-69.

The county tourney was discontinued this year. In the Holiday Tourney at Garrett, the "Mills" lost to Garrett, 74-52. However, in the Saturday night consolation game, they defeated Angola, 70-56.

In the 1957 Sectional Butler drew Hamilton. Fast-breaking throughout the game, the team won an easy 83-48 victory. In the second round of play, the Windmills were opposed by Fremont. Playing a hard-fought game the Fremont Eagles were leading by 30-26 at half-time; and went on to win 70-53, thus ending the high-school basketball career of Bill, George, Rich, and Clayton.

The schools' unsung heroes are the coaches, managers, and cheerleaders. When the team wins, everyone is happy; they all rejoice. They're a wonderful team, they're the best! But do they think of all the work that goes into the making of their team?

Their guidance, they owe to their able coaches John Reed, John Parvu, and Albert Smith.

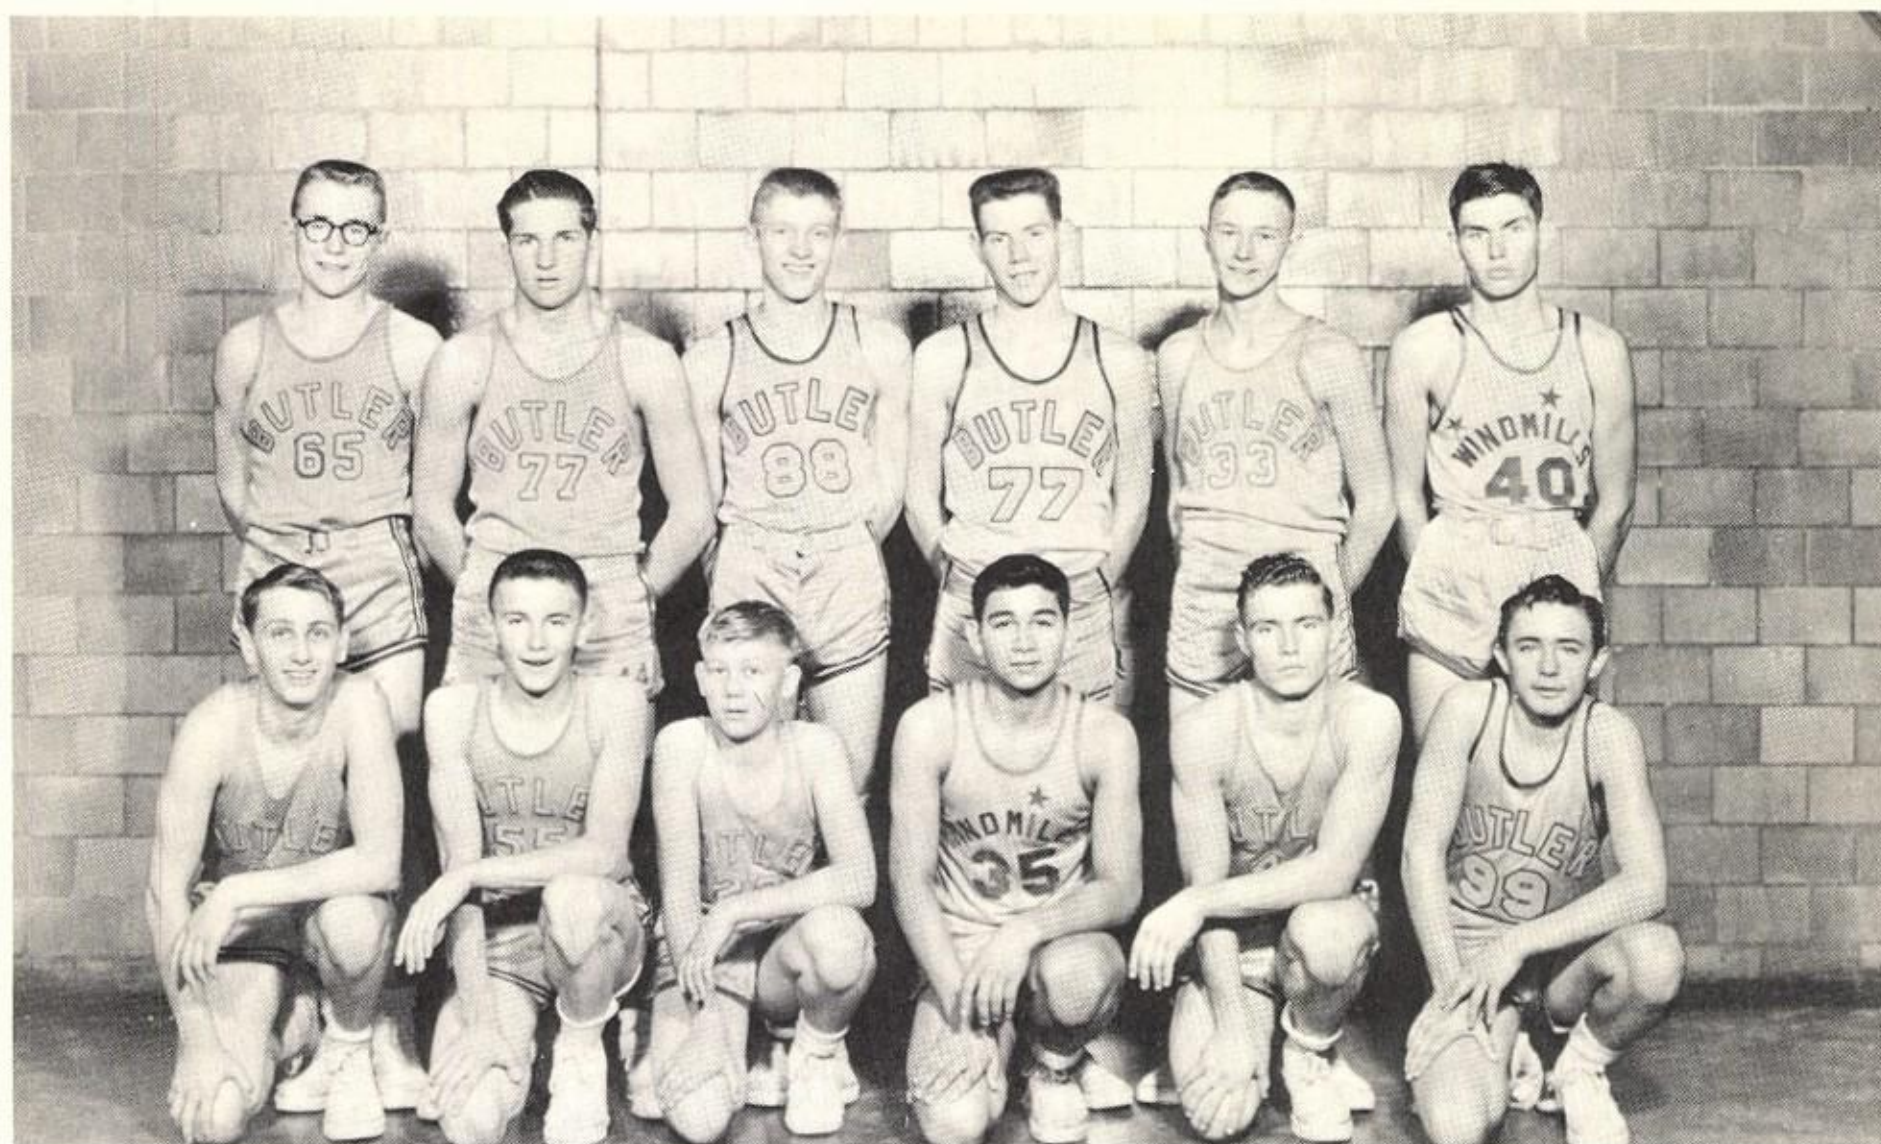

Always there, but seldom noticed are their managers. Whenever there are things to be done for the good of the team, you can bank on the managers being there.

Unsung Heroes

Our cheer leaders back our teams in wins and defeats. CLOCKWISE: Kay Bacon, Windmills; Shamon Patee, Injuns; Jane Carr, Windmills; Donna Walter, Injuns; Mary Sue Copeland, Windmills; and Carolyn Getts, Injuns.

The last of the unsung heroes are the cheerleaders. When the teams are in a slump, the cheerleaders are the ones they depend upon to bring them out of it by leading a peppy yell to perk them up. So the next game you see and when we're out ahead, stop! Think of the unsung heroes of Butler, the coaches, managers, and cheerleaders.

The Injuns of the 1956-57 team enjoyed a fairly good season by playing better than average ball to win a majority of their games. Mr. John Reed coached the boys, assisted by Mr. John Parvu.

This year's team was rather small and found it sometimes difficult to overcome teams with the height advantage. Roger Walters, Phil Ginder, Chuck Vose, and Ralph Lint were the usual starters. However, later in the season when several of these boys advanced to the varsity, Doug Higley and Howard McClish were in the line-up. Sam Underhill, Merlin Thimlar, and Howard Haverstock were prominent, although they did not see quite as much action as the first five.

Busy all the time wrapping ankles, providing towels and rosin was the efficient manager, Keith Smith; Jon Jones is the chief statistician.

Many of this year's games were won by small margins thus proving that the boys had the stamina to give that last spurt of energy. By playing clean, hard, fast ball these boys are sure to provide material for next year's varsity.

The Coach and Team Work Together

Each year emphasis is placed on the freshman basketball team. Now they have a schedule with nearly a full season of games.

The coach, John Parvu, worked the boys hard at practice sessions to develop them for their games and to strengthen them for action on the "B" Team. Being a medium-sized team the boys soon learned that they would have to "scrap" and be aggressive to win.

In all their games the freshman displayed fine cooperation, teamwork, and sportsmanship. We can be proud of these boys and sure that they will lead the future varsity to many victories.

The able manager for the freshman was Don Dunkle; the team was cheered on at the games by Lynn Alexander and Pat Getts.

The Junior High team is the basis of our future varsity. This year's team was under the supervision of Mr. John Parvu. Most of the team members were eighth graders.

The team, lacking height, found a tough schedule facing them. But, as the season wore on and more experience was gained, the boys fought and tried hard, winning more games.

Backing the Gamemasters at all the games were the two cheerleaders, Jean Carr and Steve Arnett; Allen Albert was the helpful and efficient student manager.

The success of our future teams depends on the Junior High teams. We are proud of them and sure that they will provide some good material for the varsity in the years to come.

The 1956 track team was directed by Mr. Jack Alexander.

The boys came through very well, despite the fact that they had no home track on which to practice.

Several boys were consistent in doing very well. The top dash man and broad jumper was Woodley Blaker; Walt Womack and Walter Shultz starred in the hurdles; Jeff Brown and Merlin Thimlar were tops in the mile run; Earl Shultz and John Meeks were the best pole vaulters; while Don Herrick set a new school record throwing the shot put.

The fall of the year brings umpires, nine able boys and an ever supporting crowd - that's baseball. The Butler boys proved ready, willing, and able again this year under their newly acquired coaches, Mr. John Reed and Mr. John Parvu.

The first string line-up included seniors, juniors, and sophomores all pulling together to win a total of three games and dropping six. But just as important in winning these games were the substitutes for through their understanding and their humor, seeds of good sportsmanship and leadership have been sown.

There were a total of eight noon league teams this year. Two games were played each noon four days every week during the basketball season. Competition is keen and rivalry at its peak between each teams as they compete for the best percentage won. The student body is well occupied during the noon hour while rooting for their respective class team.

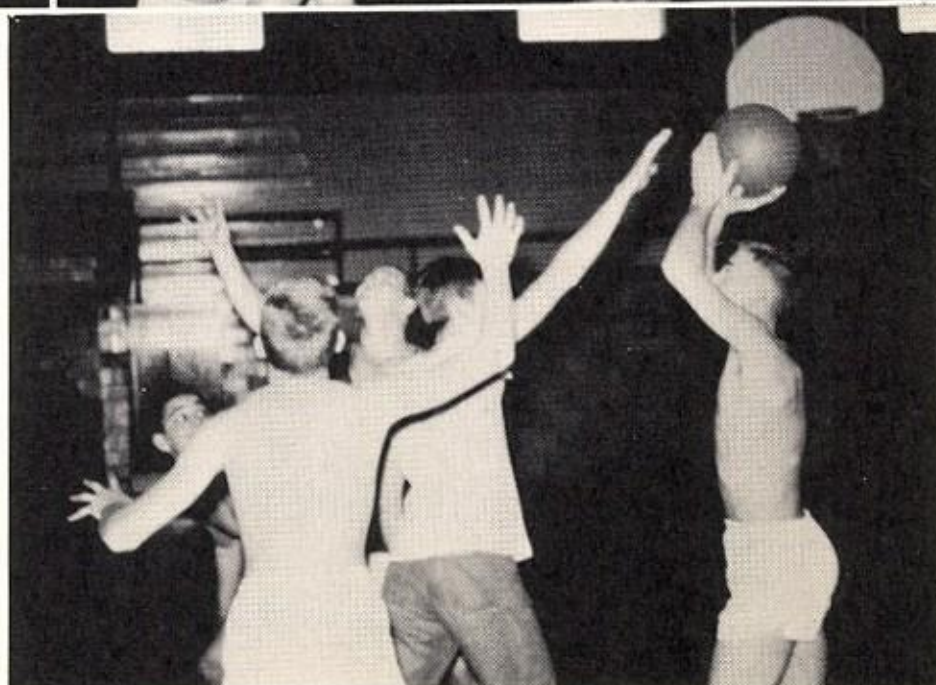

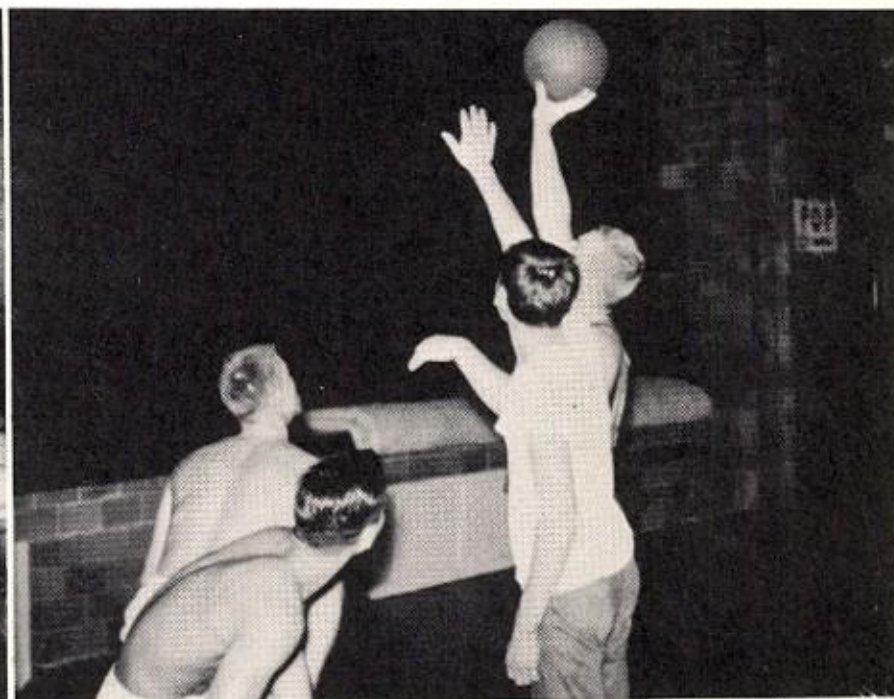

The following teams participated: Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmans, two Junior High, and two FFA teams.

Girls Stimulate Enthusiam in Sports

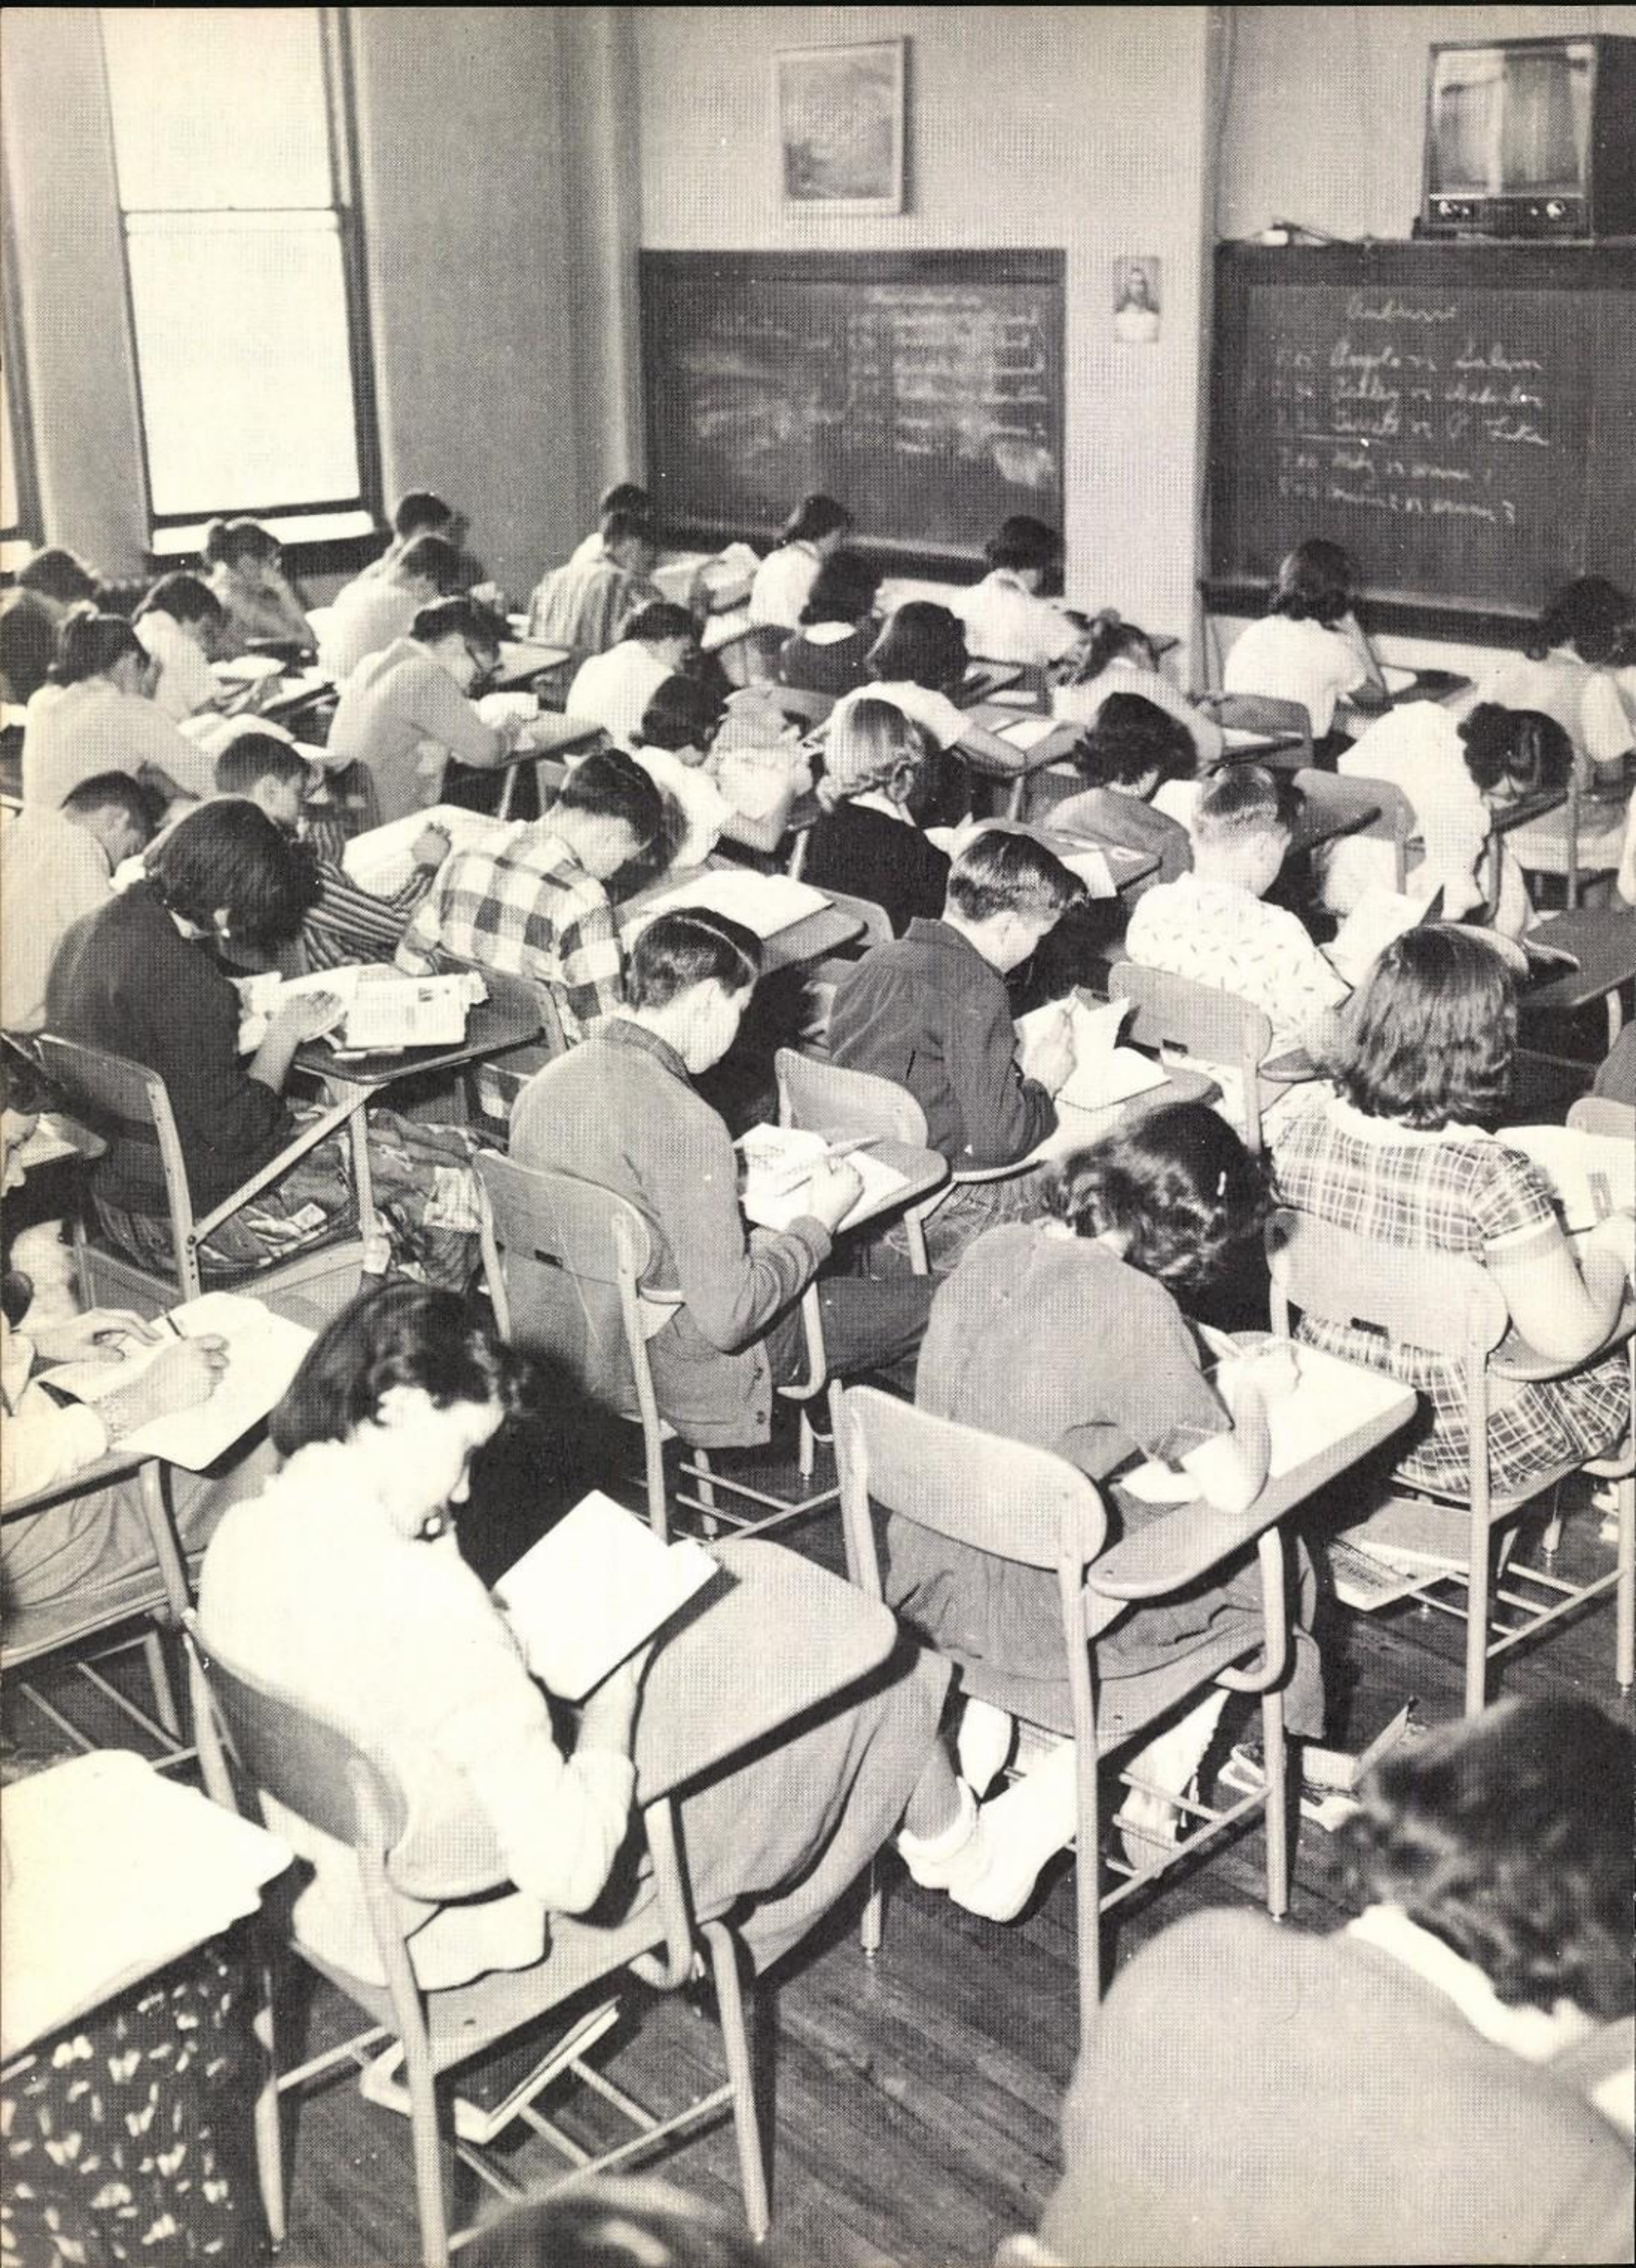

Many girls in high school are interested in a more extensive program of physical education than can be provided in the regular physical education classes. For this purpose we have the Girls' Athletic Association which helps to stimulate interest, to raise standards of health and sportsmanship, and to enrich the general recreation program. Meeting people, exchanging ideas, sharing problems, and receiving encouragement generate enthusiasm for both sponsors and students. This enthusiasm and the enjoyment of doing things with people of like interests are major reasons why the GAA is steadily growing.

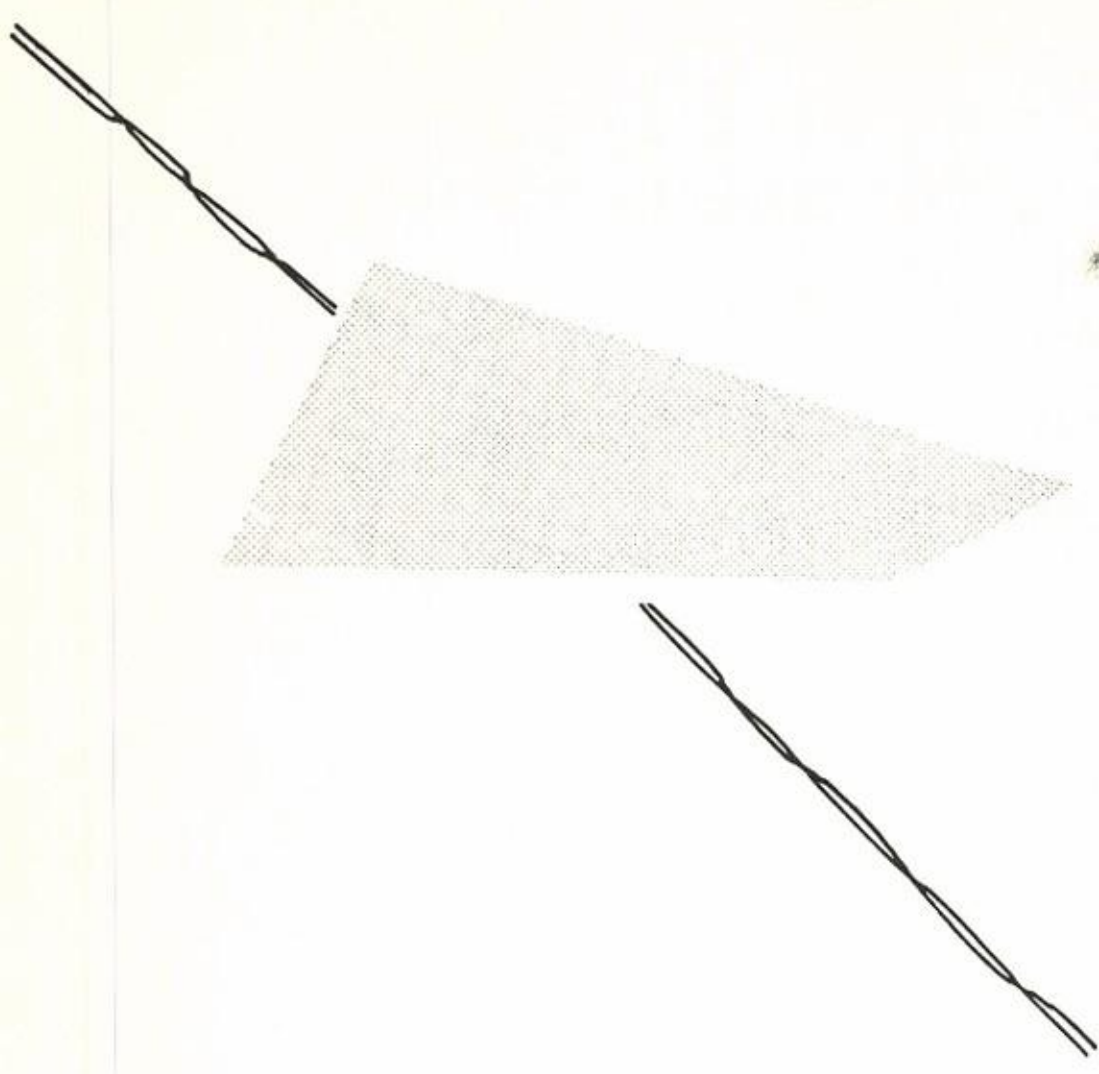

Each organization carries on its own school activities for which points are given. The purpose is to encourage regularity of attendance and to furnish a uniform basis for awards.

The girls have monthly meetings which at that time they practice and try for their skill tests which win them awards. The girls also meet every Thursday in the gym for Noon League which is part of the high school athletic program.

The officers of GAA relax after a hard game of badminton: Carolyn Hankey, vice-president; Rose Surface, President; Freida Moore, Treasurer; Helen Troyer, Point keeper; Karen Walker, Secretary.

Guiding the school in legislative policy is the school board. It works indirectly with the superintendent. The board and superintendent cooperate closely with the principals, members of the Parent-Teachers Association and all others interested in improving the school and community. Indirectly they are most important in molding the future of more than eight hundred students.

Acting as the legislative branch of government, the members discuss and decide upon all school policies. The meetings are held in the office of the Superintendent of Schools and are open to the public. Those who serve on the school board are the representatives of the people. The members who are elected are eligible candidates living in the school corporation.

The school board sponsors three school convocations. These convocations are usually the best in their field and they bring to the student body the enchantment of faraway places, the lullaby of the "best in music" and the mystery of the wonders of science.

Through the guidance of our school board, our school is made a better place in which to learn, our teachers are selected from the best in the nation, and our students are shaped into better leaders and better followers as a new and improved generation is coming into existence.

ERNEST M. ZELLER
Indiana State, B.S., M.S., Indiana University, Dir. D., Northern Carolina University, U.C., L.A., Superintendent.

HELEN HOULTON
International Business College.
Secretary to Mr. Zeller.

Mr. Zeller, our superintendent, is the executive officer of the school. In administering the rulings of the state board of education and policies of the state superintendent of public instruction he represents the state of Indiana. In local matters he acts under the authority and represents the local board of education. All executive authority is delegated by the board which establishes policies to the superintendent who carries them out.

Mr. Zeller is a member of many local, state, and national associations of superintendents, teachers, and school boards. His hobby is outdoor life which includes hunting and fishing.

His faithful secretary is Helen Houlton. She belongs to the Indiana Association of Education Secretaries. Some of her hobbies are traveling and entertaining children.

A Better Place In Which To Learn

Leonard E. Lowe, principal, organizes and supervises the general education system at Butler High School---and is right there at all school affairs. Working with the teachers and encouraging student participation in government, he sets an example of a working democracy that is the spirit of the entire school organization.

Mr. Lowe's activities go beyond Butler. He is a member of Secondary Principal's Association, Indiana State Teacher's Association, Classroom Teachers Federation, and the National Educational Association. Besides that, he keeps the family deep-freeze well filled with fish and game.

Like Robison Crusoe's Friday, Charlotte Miller acts as Mr. Lowe's "right hand man". As a combination clerk and bookkeeper you can find her busily at work every day in his office.

Bus Drivers

Butler school buses again operated this year to transport rural students to and from school. Lynn Fuller, Stewart Capp, Junior Freidenburger, Floyd Keller, Wilson Steckly, and Dick Dove drove these buses which were often used to carry students to out-of-town school activities.

Cooks

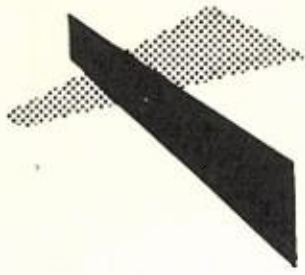

Preparing and serving well-balanced, nourishing, and delicious meals was the goal of Mrs. Stella Riser and Mrs. Glendolene Ginder. They certainly achieved their goal, as their meals were enjoyed by all.

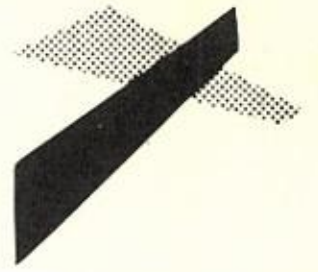

Janitors

Keeping the furnace heating properly took a great deal of time during the winter months. Careless students kept these janitors, Albert Brown and Clyde Chandler, and janitress, Mrs. Webb, busily picking up paper on school campus. During the summer months, while we were vacationing, they were making improvements both inside and outside the school building.

Acknowledgments

We, the Tropaeum Staff of 1957, take this opportunity to show our appreciation to the following people for their outstanding co-operation, help, and support in making this yearbook publication possible:

Mr. Robert S. Sutula of Elkhart, who gave of his time and energy to take our pictures;

Mr. Harold Walker of Butler for his aid in taking and developing our pictures;

Mr. William Sadler for his careful and efficient supervision of the entire yearbook,

Mr. Leonard E. Lowe and the high school teachers for their patience and co-operation with our pictureschedules;

Those who through their support and financial aid made this yearbook possible;

You, the purchaser of our yearbook; we sincerely hope that you receive many hours of enjoyment from this 1957 Tropaeum.
